INTRODUCTION

A BRIEF HISTORY

The history of St.John's goes back to 1845, when a mission was set up and services were held in a barn lower down Barkerhouse Road. In due course, land for a church, graveyard and school was given by Mrs MAW and Miss WALTON, members of the WALTON family of Marsden Hall. The foundation stone was laid in December 1846 and in 1848 the church of St.John the Evangelist was completed. The building was consecrated by the Bishop of Manchester in 1848 and the first service was held at Christmas in the same year. Its first incumbent was the Reverend William MESSENGER, who remained as vicar until his death in 1882 aged 63 years. Well loved by his parishioners, the local newspaper reported that about 1,000 people attended his funeral. Another long serving vicar was Reverend John MORGAN who was at the church for over 50 years until his death in 1958 at the age of 86 years. He never lost his native Welsh accent and was a familiar figure in the town driving his 1928 two-seater Humber car until a couple of years before his death.

The original church had been restored and enlarged in 1896, but over time, the building began to suffer from dry rot etc. and in late 1995 it had to be demolished. The old school, adjacent to the old church, was then used for services until it too was demolished, in this case to make way for the new modern church building. This new church was consecrated by the Bishop of Blackburn, the Right Reverend Alan Chesters, in May 2000.

At the time that St.John's was built in 1848, the town of Nelson did not officially exist. The area of present day Nelson and Brierfield was known as Marsden, Great and Little Marsden, whilst the name Nelson referred to only a small area centred around the Nelson Inn. The name of Nelson came into common usage after the East Lancashire Railway Company extended the railway line through from Burnley to Colne in 1849. The station at Marsden took its name from the nearby Nelson Inn and eventually the emerging town became known as Nelson.

The district of Marsden was just beginning to change from a rural area producing cloth woven on handlooms in weavers' homes to a town of cotton mills and factories.

Nelson grew rapidly as people moved into the town in search of work. In 1851, the population of the district was approximately 6,000, but by 1901 this had risen to over 30,000.

With the increase in population, several non-conformist chapels were built but none of these had burial grounds. Nelson Municipal Cemetery, on Walton Lane, was not opened until 1895 which meant that St.John's had in effect been the town's only burial ground for nearly 50 years. It is the last resting place for over 17,000 people from all faiths, all walks of life and from all parts of the British Isles.

This large Churchyard is situated on the side of a hill, with relatively uninterrupted views over the town and the Pendle-side villages. There are some thirty war graves from both World Wars, but, because of the poor condition of the churchyard, the Commonwealth War Graves Commission has temporarily abandoned the upkeep of the war graves at St.John's and erected a large new monument in Nelson's Walton Lane Cemetery, inscribed with all the names of the military personnel who are buried in this churchyard.

Over recent years, the ground at St.John's has been ravaged by the rapid growth of Japanese Knotweed and also suffered from damage by vandals. As traditional local family life diminishes, there is also less impetus to look after the monuments in our burial grounds.

In 2005 a community group of volunteers, The Friends of St.John's Churchyard, embarked on a major project of reclamation, restoration and renovation. Following the successful reclamation of this important and historical graveyard it is now possible to look across the 6½ acre site and access the many prestigious monuments, war graves and family graves situated in the churchyard. Local residents are also involved in creating an area of quiet contemplation and beauty yet still retaining the churchyard's status as a consecrated burial ground. The Friends' Vision is that, St.John's Churchyard will once again become an integral part of Nelson's community, benefiting young and old alike.

INFORMATION ON THE DISK was taken from:-

- Memorial Inscriptions; surveyed in the mid 1990's.
- Grave Books; 1870-1990's, one book for each plot except plots K and X, which are combined.
- Receipt Books; 1870-1962 (except 1914-1937, which is missing).
- Burial Records; from 1986 onwards and where appropriate.
- Plot Boards; (paper plans fastened to large wooden boards, approximately 4ft square, since destroyed) showing the Grave number and the Purchaser.

Note : Names in the Index, without a Date or Age, may indicate a Grave Purchaser, and those without any Grave number, are usually from an early Burial Register and/or are often infants.

Note : Information within [square brackets] is from other sources or comments by the transcriber.

THIS INFORMATION may show:-

- The type of grave.
- The Name of the person who purchased the grave.
- The people in the grave with Name, Address, Date of Burial and Age at death.
- Memorial Inscription (if any). Each line of the inscription ends with ' / ' and ' // ' indicates that there is an inscription on another face of the stone (possibly, a kerb stone).
- Stonemason's name (if any) is shown at the end of the Memorial Inscription.

The old Church and its arched gateway, the Church Centre, formerly the school, and the new "War grave" monument erected in the nearby Walton Lane Cemetery; to replace the difficult to maintain individual headstones in St.John's Graveyard

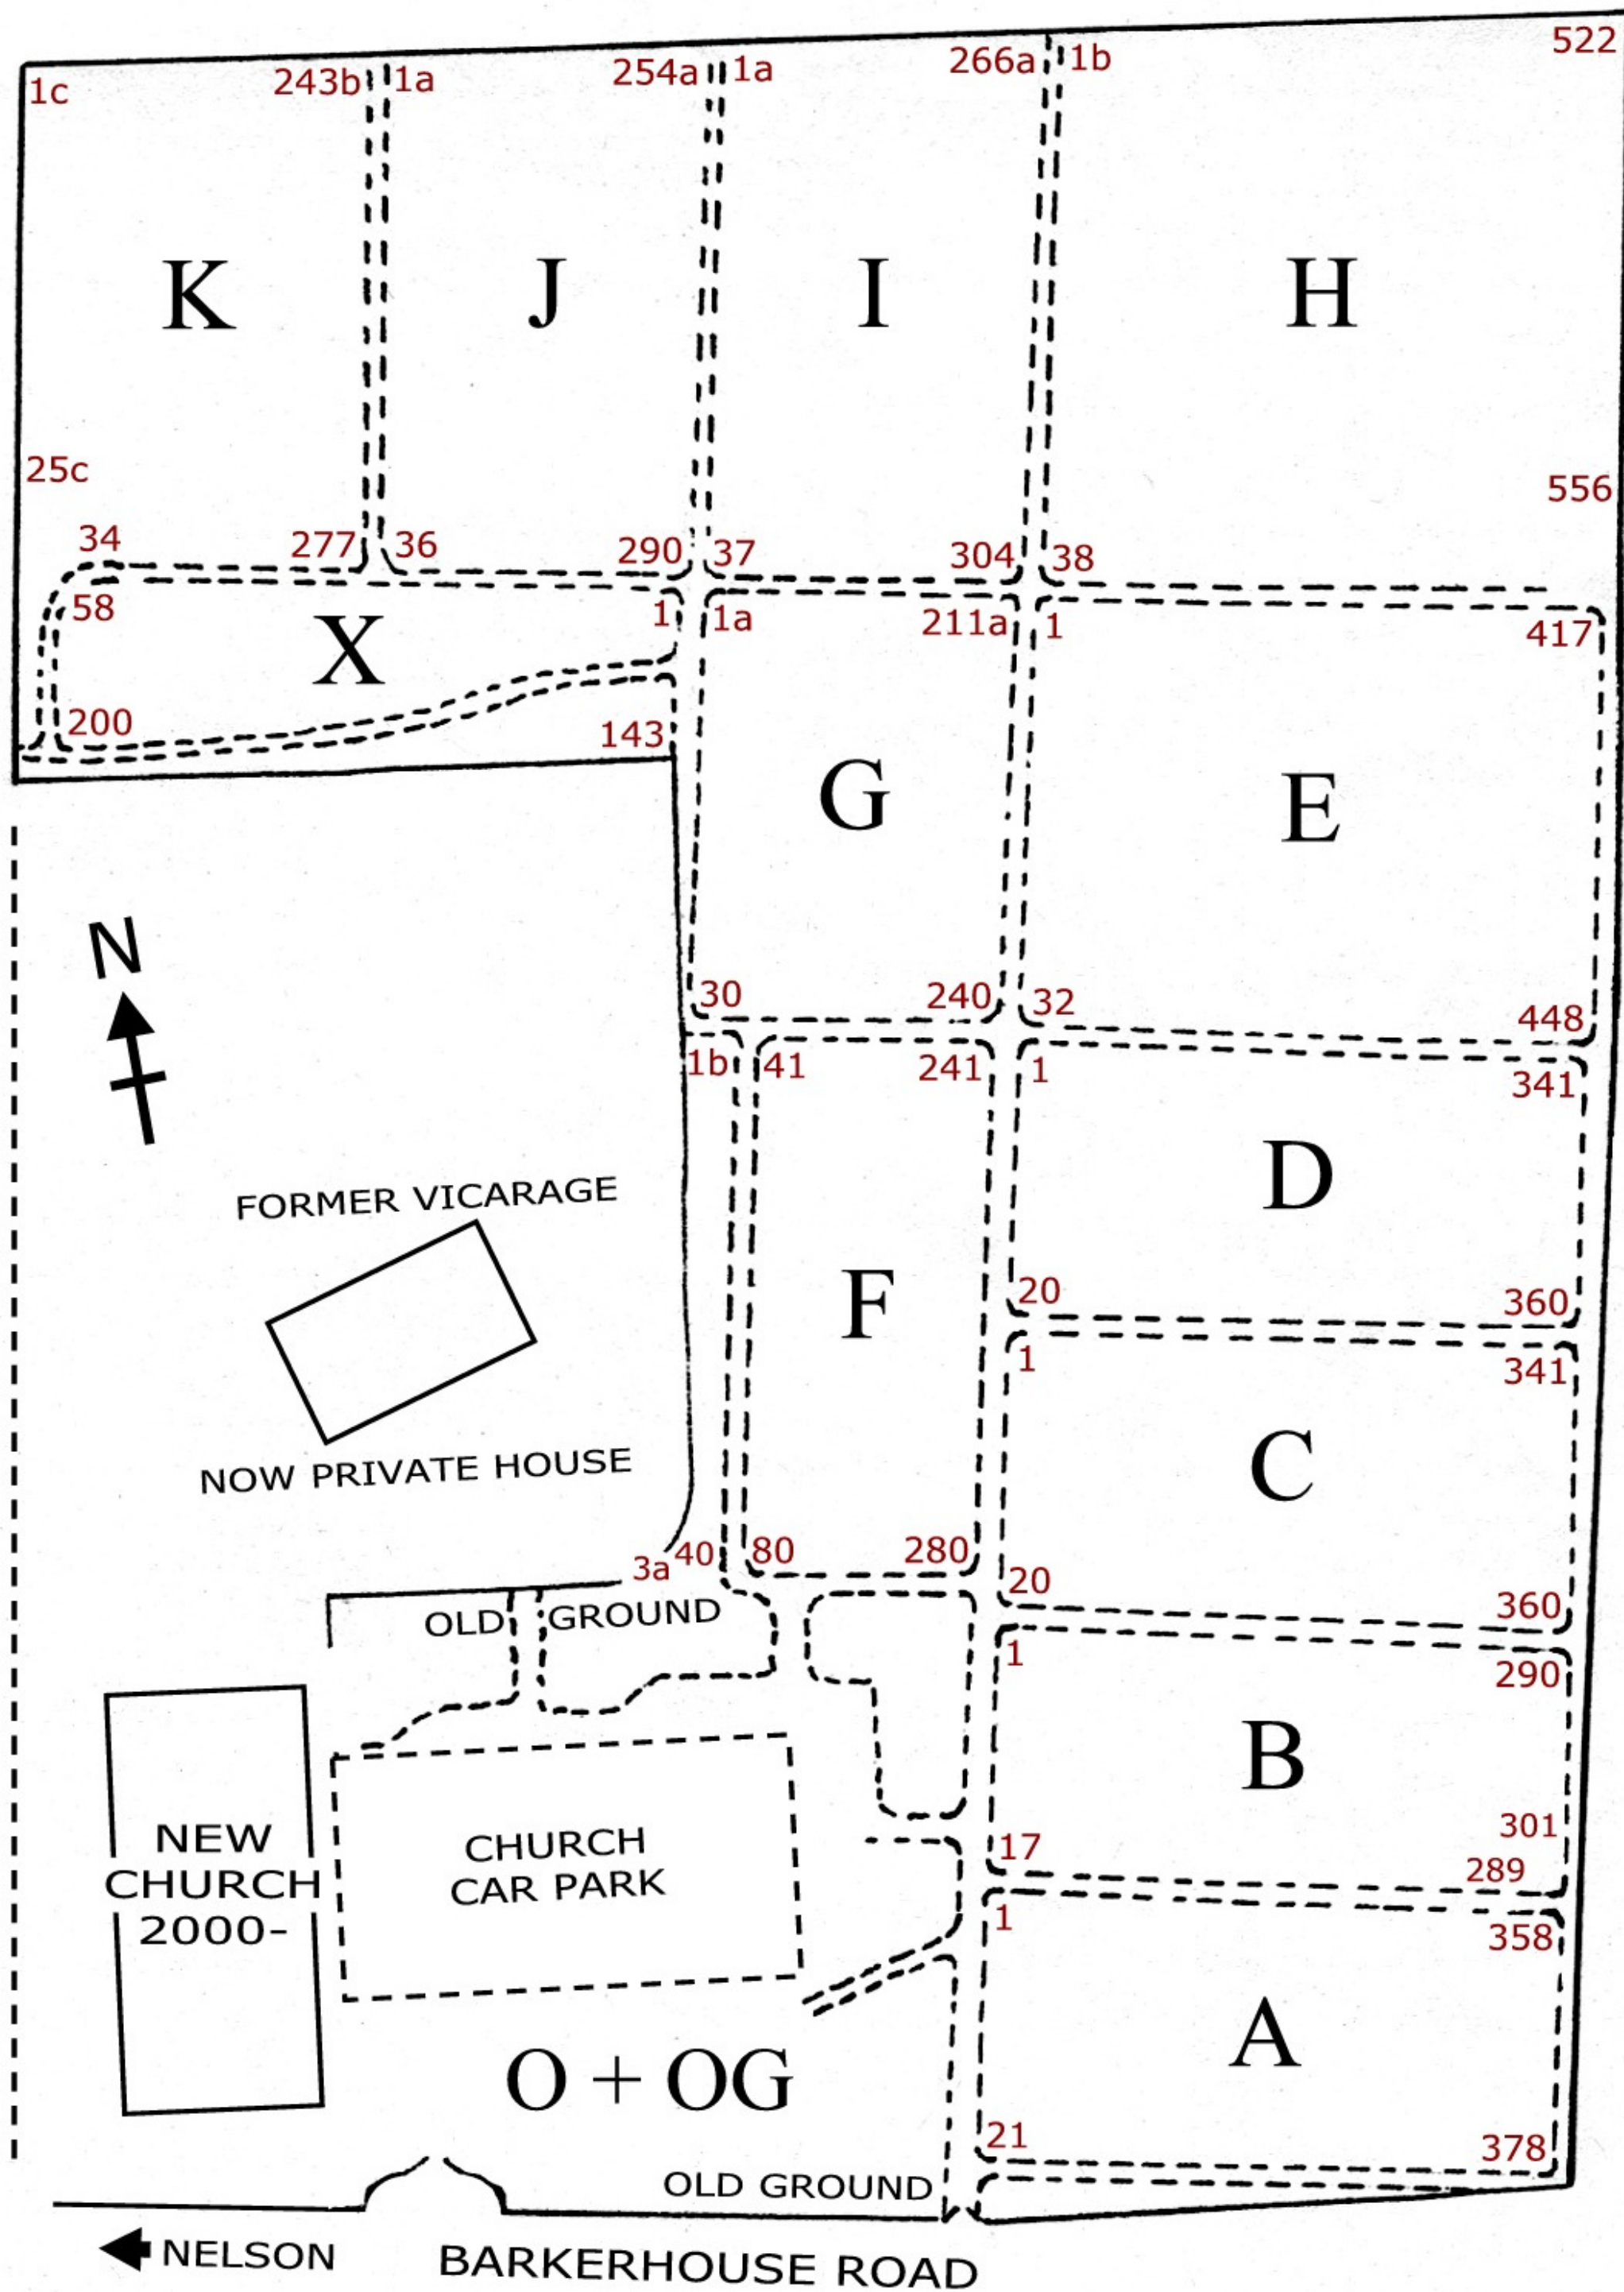

Three images of the church yard, showing the extent and infestation of the Knotweed, prior to the formation of the "Friends" group

The grass may still be tall, but now,
many headstones are visible
